

FIRST CLASS BUSINESS CENTRE

The Travel Club now offers some of the best business facilities in central London, offering even more cost effective reasons to become a member.

The stylish new business centre, situated on the ground floor overlooking the courtyard, has been completely refurbished to a high standard.

Members now have wi-fi, work stations, desks, meeting areas - and much more - at no extra cost.

“We find that most of our members have joined as a convenient means of conducting business in central London where the price of hiring meeting rooms in other clubs and hotels is totally prohibitive”, said Tom Nutley, club managing director.

“Members and their guests can now use free one of five comfortable meeting areas where the environment is relaxed but totally conducive to discussing business.

“It is also entirely separate from the more formal style of the more traditional club facilities at the front of the magnificent Grade 11 Listed building in St. James’s Square in the heart of London.

“This is a brilliant industry facility for anyone who does not have an office in central London but who is frequently trying to conduct business here.

“It means that the modest membership fee has even greater value.”

The Travel Club, the latest phenomenon to sweep the international travel and tourism industry, offers huge business benefits. Facilities include meetings and conference rooms, bars and a value for money restaurant.

The club provides a friendly environment for business meetings, networking, entertaining and events as well as a chance to network with like-minded colleagues.

The new business centre, which took three months to complete, has everything industry professionals need to work including four computers, printer, workstations and a mobile phone charging area.

You can even hire your own PA.

The Travel Club is working with buy:time, offering lifestyle management, PA and concierge services to members.

“Clearly our members are very busy people, juggling a million things and often trying to be in two places at once” said Tom. “It is because they often need a reliable and experienced professional to step in for an odd hour to help, that we have linked up with buy:time.

“The company is very experienced with a skilled team of committed assistants, a flexible approach and the ability to work either remotely or at the club.

“buy:time aims to change lives and, judging from what I have seen, they frequently do.”

buy:time

because there's never enough

How many times do you say to yourself and to anyone else who will listen... 'I never have enough time'?

Sadly, in today's fast track industry, where change is normal and new developments happen almost overnight, it's an all too frequent cry for help from travel executives.

That's why buy:time is a brilliant new service service offering a dedicated assistant - but without the need to commit to any particular level of use - by The Travel Club to non members, as well as members, to help them conduct business – and their lives – with less frustration and definitely more order.

The Travel Club has become partners with buy:time and directors believe that once industry professionals have tried their services, they will never look back. It's the ideal complement to the new club business centre.

"You can delegate anything to us – your wedding, your renovation, your new office set-up, book keeping, shopping, even your tax return", said Claire Brynteson, buy:time's managing director.

"Regular administrative support is an increasingly popular choice for new or growing businesses and busy people, who need consistent, personal or executive assistance on a flexible basis.

"Each buy:time client is assigned their own assistant who can work anywhere at any time.

"buy:time offers an efficient option to handle all administration, with the added benefit of no employment contracts, no national insurance contributions, holiday pay or recruitment agency fees.

"With a wide variety of professional backgrounds, a buy:time PA may act as a secretary, management assistant, office manager or even as a virtual assistant."

Claire explained that the buy:time team works together in sharing knowledge and experience, and they cover each other in times of absence.

Non members can book a few hours or a few days a month – it's up to you.

Price per hour for non members is £39 per hour. But its only £29 per hour if you are a member of The Travel Club.

ALL CHANGE!

In addition to the meetings areas in the new business centre, The Travel Club members can still book two meeting rooms free of charge for a maximum of two hours.

The Crow's Nest area now has two meeting rooms – The Board Room, which is unchanged and the new Irvin Room.

The Ladies Room next to the new business centre has also been completely refurbished and the old shower room has been converted into a changing room, convenient for lady members who are going from work to a dinner or other industry event.

ROOMS FOR THE OLYMPICS

Have you been lucky enough to get tickets for one or even several of the 2012 Olympics in London yet?

If so, now is the time to consider becoming a member of The Travel Club and acquiring a bedroom at a modest price, as well as making your trip that little bit more special – and convenient.

Standard weekday bedroom rates will apply throughout the Games to members making this another fabulous reason why membership of The Travel Club is priceless.

The Olympic Games will be held between 27 July and 12 August and the Paralympic Games between 29 August and 9 September 2012.

CHAMPION FITNESS

Boxing is probably one of the best means of getting fit.

Particularly when The Travel Club trainer, Simon has worked with the celebrated David Haye (nicknamed The Haymaker), current WBA World Heavyweight Champion!

The club gym is now offering TWO boxing classes a week.

These fun workouts combine the more technical aspects of boxing with a great all-round cardio workout.

The classes, for a maximum of five people, are perfect for men or women.

The first class, fully equipped gym, wave resistant pool and classes at the club are open to all Travel Club members.
